About the Judges:

Juan Dale Brown spent the past 45 years working as a photojournalist. While the majority of his career was spent working for local publications, his work has been published by the Associated Press in countless newspapers and magazines (including Time Magazine). Brown has won several national awards for his photography and judged many competitions throughout the years. He credits his success as a photographer to hard work and early art lessons taken from the Museum's founder, A.E. Backus who taught him an understanding of light and its source that Brown has utilized throughout his career.

Pat Rice is a past president of the Indian River Photography Club and is known for his sports photography. Employed as a freelance photographer for Scripps Treasure Coast Publishing, his other photographic interests include wildlife, concerts, travel and special events. Visit his website at www.jprimages.com.

Matthew Stone has worked as a professional photographer since 1992. He majored in photography at Ohio State University and has studied with master photographer Stephen Frink at the Nikonos School of Photography. Stone also completed an underwater photography internship at NMHI Sea Camp in 1992. Stone works for several area Chambers of Commerce documenting their events and achievements. He is also the house photographer for the Sunrise Theatre in Ft. Pierce. Stone's most recent award was a First Place in the Kelby Photo Walk Competition in Palm Beach, Florida.
